Hearing Set for Small Business Owners to Comment About Excessive Federal Regulatory Enforcement

OMAHA, NE – Small business owners, community leaders and representatives of trade associations concerned about excessive enforcement of federal rules may voice their complaints at a U.S. Small Business Administration Regulatory Fairness Board Hearing in Lincoln from 1:30 – 3:30 p.m., Wednesday, March 30.

The hearing will be at the Southeast Community College, Gallup Campus, 301 South 68th Street, Place, Room 303 in Lincoln, Nebraska.

Michael Barrera, SBA's National Ombudsman, members of SBA's Region VII Regulatory Fairness Board, and representatives of federal regulatory agencies will be present to hear comments and complaints about regulatory enforcement and compliance.

"One of the biggest concerns small business owners face is unfair enforcement of federal regulations. They also worry about telling their stories because they fear retaliation by federal agencies," Michael Barrera said. "Small business owners want to play by the rules and comply with federal regulations," he added, "and we want to encourage federal regulators to assist business owners with compliance rather than go straight to the penalty stage."

This forum offers small business owners a chance to express their concerns about federal compliance practices in SBA's Nebraska District area, which includes all 93 counties.

Comments and complaints presented during the hearing will be directed to the appropriate federal regulatory agency. This information will also be shared with federal officials in the Ombudsman's annual report to Congress and with managers of federal regulatory agencies to assist them with their enforcement actions.

The National Ombudsman's authority to respond to comments on compliance issues is limited to federal regulatory enforcement matters and does not include concerns about obtaining federal contracts, regulations in general, or securing guaranteed loans.

The Lincoln hearing is open to the public. Those wishing to testify should contact Deborah Wilson with the SBA Nebraska District Office at (402)221-7222, or by email at deborah.haycraft.wilson@sba.gov before the hearing. A small business owner or representative unable to attend may submit, in advance of the hearing, written testimony to be included in the public record.
